Editing your Account and mailing settings

We like to keep in touch with our Account Holders so after you have signed up to Trainer we'll send you information about services provided by us.

Of course we know lots of emails can be annoying so we try to keep ours to a minimum. However, if you feel you're getting too many or would like more you can change the settings in your Account at any time. Each communication gives you the opportunity to opt-out of receiving similar future communications. You can review, change or correct your identity and email address information by signing into your Account and going to the settings tab.

Please note there are some communications that are an integral part of the Trainer and cannot be opted-out of. These communications cover, amongst other things, changes to the Trainer and your actual or potential transactions.
